

SEG – IAEG-50 TRAVEL BURSARY APPLICATION

An SEG – IAEG Travel Bursary has been established to provide financial support for successful applicants to attend the IAEG 50th Anniversary Conference on “Irish-type Zn-Pb deposits around the world”.

- The Bursary is intended to offset the costs of travel and/or accommodation to attend the IAEG-50 Conference.
- Awards are competitive and will be solely based upon the merit and qualification(s) of the applicant.
- Applicants must describe what is hoped to be achieved and the benefits by attending the Conference.
- Successful applicants are expected to make their own arrangements to travel and book accommodation for the Conference. Conference Registration Fees will be waived as part of the Bursary.
- The Bursary will be awarded only to individual students, not to institutions or faculty members.
- The Bursary Selection Committee will favourably view requests from students who are proposing to present a paper or poster at the Conference, and to those who are conducting, or planning to conduct, research on Irish-style Zn-Pb deposits anywhere in the world.
- Preference for funding will be given to those applicants who are SEG and/or IAEG Student Members.
- If the applicant proposes to submit a paper or poster, he/she should refer to the specifications and guidelines described on the IAEG-50 website at <https://iaeg.ie/IAEG-50>.

APPLICATION

The application should summarize the background of the applicant, the reason for their interest in attending the conference and what they hope to achieve by their attendance. Answers should be limited to 300 words.

Applications should be supported by an academic advisor familiar with the applicant. Electronic signatures are accepted.

Applications received on, or before, 1st April 2023 will only be considered.

Applications for consideration by the selection committee should be sent to
